City celebrates Constitution Day

Constitution incorporates all Rights and Modalities of Life: Former HC Judge

Former Karnataka High Court Judge D.V. Shailendra Kumar addressing the gathering during the Constitution Day celebrations at Rani Bahadur auditorium in city this morning.

Mysuru, Nov.26 (RKB,DM,PM &SD)- Lectures, panel discussions, debates, reading of the preamble and expos on Dr. B.R. Ambedkar marked the Constitution Day celebrations at different venues in city this morning.

Former Karnataka High Court Judge D.V. Shailendra Kumar inaugurated a special lecture on the topic 'Constitutional morality and contemporary develoopments' at the Constitution Day programme organised by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar Research and Extension Centre of the University of Mysore (UoM) at Rani Bahadur Auditorium on Hunsur Road here.

Speaking on the occasion, Justice (retd.) Shailendra Kumar said that the Indian Constitution incorporates all human rights and modalities of life and it is high time we introspect on the progress made in the implementation of the Constitutional aspirations in the past 70 years.

Pointing out that the Constitution gives us the freedom to choose our faith, food habits, mobility across the country, livelihood, business etc., he said the Constitution also has given us opportunities to elect leaders on whom we have confidence.

Noting that the Indian Constitution is guided by humanity, principles, patriotism and such other issues, Shailendra Kumar said that although there were several personalities involved, it was Dr. Ambedkar who played a pivotal role in the drafting of the Constitution.

Regretting that the task of economic empowerment of the downtrodden and other oppressed sections of the society is yet to be achieved even after seven decades of Independence, he reiterated that it was important to introspect on the reasons for this unaccomplished task.

Emphasising on the need to show commitment for realising the Constitutional aspirations, he opined that persons of unquestionable character should make efforts to implement the provisions defined in the Constitution.

Maha Floor Test tomorrow

FLASH: Maha CM and Dy.CM resign

New Delhi, Nov. 26- The Supreme Court (SC) today said that the Maharashtra Government led by BJP's Devendra Fadnavis will have to prove its majority by holding a floor test before 5 pm tomorrow (Nov.27).

The Three-Judge Bench comprising Justices N.V. Ramana, Ashok Bhushan and Sanjiv Khanna ordered that the floor test be held on Wednesday.

Reading out the order, Justice Ramana said that the floor test will be held via an open ballot and will be telecast live. The SC also ordered that the senior-most MLA of the House be nominated as the Protem Speaker, who will swear-in the MLAs before holding the floor test.

The SC was hearing the plea filed by the Shiv Sena-Nationalist Congress Party(NCP)-Congress alliance against the new BJP-NCP Government that was sworn-in early Saturday morning with Devendra Fadnavis of the BJP as Chief Minister and Ajit Pawar of the NCP as Deputy CM, creating a political upheaval in the State.

The petition had sought the quashing of Maharashtra Governor B.S. Koshyari's decision inviting BJP's Devendra Fadnavis to form the Government on Saturday morning as "unconstitutional, arbitrary, illegal, void-ab-initio, and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India."

The plea had also sought the Apex Court's direction to the Governor to invite the alliance of Maha Vikas Aghadi comprising Shiv Sena, Congress and NCP.

Samvidhan Divas today

First pages of the Constitution of India in Hindi and English.

Narendra Modi

Dr. B.R. Ambedkar

Constitution Day, also known as Samvidhan Divas, is celebrated in India on 26th November every year to commemorate the adoption of the Constitution of India. This day in 1949, the Constituent Assembly of India adopted the Constitution of India, and it came into effect, two months later, on 26th January 1950.

The Government of India declared 26th November as Constitution Day on 19th November 2015 by a gazette notification. Prime Minister Narendra Modi made this declaration on 11th October 2015 while laying the foundation stone of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's Statue of Equality Memorial in Mumbai.

The year 2015 was the 125th birth anniversary of Dr. Ambedkar, who had chaired the Drafting Committee of the Constituent Assembly and played a pivotal role in the drafting of the Constitution. There was also a special session of Indian Parliament on 26th November 2015 to pay tribute to the Constitution and Dr. Ambedkar.

Today, the Government of India is celebrating Constitution Day in the Central Hall of Parliament to mark the 70th anniversary of adoption of the Constitution by the Constituent Assembly. The joint Parliament Session was addressed by the President, the Vice-President, the Prime Minister and the Speaker.

However, the Congress, Shiv Sena and a few other parties boycotted the joint sitting in protest against the political developments in Maharashtra.

Previously this day was celebrated as National Law Day and 26th November was chosen to spread the importance of the Constitution of India and also to spread the thoughts and ideas of Dr. Ambedkar.

Constitution Day is not a public holiday. Various Departments of the Government of India too celebrate Constitution Day. As per the Department of Education and Literacy, the preamble of the Constitution is read in all schools by all students.

To mark the 70th anniversary of adoption of the Constitution, here we publish a three-part article by Dr. C.D. Sreenivasa Murthy of Mysuru, titled "We The People — The making of Indian Constitution and the forgotten Kannadiga who helped build India's Democracy."

Crying in wilderness

Flooding of large areas of agricultural lands with standing crops and plantations in Malnad regions of Karnataka, particularly Kodagu, Chikkamagaluru and Hassan, inundating of urban as well as rural living spaces in several States across the country, including North-Eastern region, Bihar, Himachal Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat, Odisha and Karnataka causing extensive losses worth God-knows-how-many crores of rupees, displacement of millions of people rendering them shelterless to battle hardship that cannot be expressed in words, a calamitous year 2019 that people of other unaffected parts of the country are blissfully unaware, but for the graphic reports carried by dailies and telecast on the small screen. Typical of urban residents, Mysuru's citizens are tirelessly writing in the columns of widely read dailies, including this tabloid, about potholes of crater dimensions, piled up garbage emanating foul odour, overflowing drains bringing sewage on to the streets, neglected parks, dilapidated condition of public buildings and what have you.

The few civic-minded residents of Mysuru, taking trouble to come out of their homes, noticing the city's environment in utter disarray, majority of them being senior citizens and writing in dailies bring to our memory the days of Dewans of Mysore known for their keeping hawk's eyes on the city's upkeep.

Reading about unlivable conditions in various regions of the country, such as ambient air quality in National Capital Region reportedly crossing the 750 mark while the norm is less than 50, residents of Mysuru have every reason to feel blessed. The tragedy, however, is not that the city's civic amenities are far below what they ought to be, but the tragedy is that they can be kept in top gear if only the residents extend a helping hand to the administration, which finds itself overwhelmed by the nature of problems and their gargantuan dimension. However, the city's noted senior citizens, some of them in their late eighties, including retired academics and former technocrats who served in high posts don't seem to be giving up. Two of the near nonagenarians have just brought out, thanks to media, the distasteful environment of the University of Mysore campus.

The Universities teacher fraternity, students taking courses, researchers and administration staff, with a headcount of about 3,000 can change the image of campus to world class by each doing his/her bit. Energy, resources and time spent on unrewarding activities, if kept out of the purview of the institution, the day is done or else, the senior citizens reminding all concerned about tasks to be done remains as crying in wilderness (Aranyarodhana).

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

No language belongs to a community or a group or even a country. Sanskrit is the common heritage of India and cannot be identified with or owned by any religion. Scholars of other communities have also studied the language and contributed to it. Latin is not a Christian language. Nor are Arabic and Urdu Muslim languages. Most languages have common roots and many have interacted and influenced each other over centuries. There is nothing exclusive about them. Sanskrit, in fact, lost its vitality and stopped growing when a narrow community claimed its ownership. A Muslim has as much right to learn and teach Sanskrit as a Hindu. The students have claimed that the Founder of the Banaras Hindu University (BHU), Madan Mohan Malviya, did not want a Muslim to teach Sanskrit. This is not true, and in any case, would be wrong and unacceptable even if he had said so. — In Deccan Herald

Dog trapped in car drives in circles for an hour

Port St. Lucie: In a cul-de-sac at Port St. Lucie in southern Florida, neighbors watched in confusion as a dog named Max managed to lock himself in his owner's car, accidentally put it in reverse gear and drove in circles for nearly an hour.

The black labrador retriever was reportedly left in the running car after the owner made a wrong turn and left to check on something. That's when Max somehow hit the stick shift and put the 2003 silver Mercury Sable in reverse. It began looping around, with its doors locked.

The car then went backward, where it careened onto someone's lawn crashing into a mailbox before the cops could intervene and managed to open the door of the car.

"They should give that dog a [driver's] license, he drives better than some people I've seen on the roads here," a woman in the neighbourhood said.

Pilot rescued after plane gets tangled in power lines

Minnesota: A pilot was rescued after his small-engine plane became entangled in high-voltage power lines in Minnesota, officials said.

65-year-old Thomas Koskovich was flying his Piper Cub when he became trapped in the power lines in Scott County, the Scott County Sheriff's Office said. Authorities said they received a 911 call about a plane dangling upside-down in the air in Louisville Township.

Power was shut off and rescuers near Shakopee worked to free the pilot, the sheriff's office said. Koskovich, who was the sole occupant of the plane, was not injured in the accident.

"This incident could have been much worse," Sheriff Luke Hennen said in a statement. "We are grateful the pilot was able to walk away without any injuries."

VOICE OF THE READER

Install 'No Entry' board at Mall near K.R. Circle

Sir,

During early years of opening of Garuda Mall on Albert Victor (AV) Road near K.R. Circle, cars were allowed to enter the basement of the Mall to park during shopping. Of late the entrance of the parking lot has been shifted to the road behind the Mall.

However, even today many cars try to enter from AV Road side and the security guards present there are redirecting them towards new entrance. This is leading to traffic jam at the Circle as the vehicles that enter the Mall have to take reverse and go towards Chamaraja Circle.

This is causing pile-up of the vehicles and the pile-up is reaching up to the Circle depending on the number of vehicles and blocking free movement of vehicles at K.R. Circle.

Hence, the authorities concerned are requested to erect a 'No Entry' signboard near the Mall entrance on AV Road to facilitate free movement of vehicles. Added to this, parking of the vehicles (cars and autos) in spite of 'no parking' board on this stretch is also adding to traffic jams on AV Road and also at the busy K.R. Circle.

Pathetic Roads at Vijayanagar 2nd Stage

Sir,

The Roads from Vijayanagar Water Tank till Ring Road via Abhishek Circle and from Water Tank till Trinity Circle are in a very worst condition for the past three months which is really pathetic.

I am not sure whether the area Corporators take necessary action to repair them and make it motorable. This road is frequented by motorists to touch Infosys and Ring Road via Abhishek Circle. It would be really helpful if the respective officials take action immediately.

Fake 'Sadhus' allegedly dupe finance company Manager

Make away with Rs.1,000 cash, mobile phone

Kushalnagar, Nov.26 (Akshay &KS)- Two persons dressed in saffron robes and claiming to be Naga Sadhus from the Himalayas, have allegedly duped a private finance company Manager and have made away with Rs.1,000 cash and a mobile phone worth about Rs.20,000 on Sunday morning.

The person who was duped is Nagegowda, Manager of Janashree Finance on IB Road in Kushalnagar.

Though it was a Sunday, Nagegowda had come to the office as he had some work. At about 10.50 am, two persons in saffron robes came inside the office and introduced themselves as Naga Sadhus from the Himalayas and told Nagegowda that they were staying near Chamundi Hill in Mysuru and gave him (Nagegowda) saffron colour vibhuti and asked Nagegowda to smell it.

When Nagegowda smelled the vibhuti, he seemed to be hypnotised and began to listen whatever the Sadhus told him. The CCTV footage showing the accused Sadhus interacting with the victim, Nagegowda, at the latter's office in Kushalnagar on Sunday morning.

Sadhus then asked Nagegowda to give them money for food following which Nagegowda opens the drawer and the Sadhus take out a bundle of currency notes in Rs.10 and Rs.20 denomination totalling Rs.1,000.

One of the Sadhus, then puts his hand to remove the gold chain which Nagegowda was wearing during which Nagegowda's friend Nagesh comes to the office. The Sadhu then takes back his hand and opposes the presence of Nagesh. But Nagesh comes inside the office and after sitting on the chair for about 10 minutes goes away.

The Sadhus then ask Nagegowda to hand over his mobile phone and he (Nagegowda) hands over his Samsung mobile phone worth about Rs.20,000 to the Sadhus after removing the SIM card. The Sadhus then take out a 2 ft. long dagger and gave it to Nagegowda asking him to take it around the office saying that he would become the owner of the company if he does it.

Nagegowda, after taking the dagger around the office, hands it over to one of the Sadhus, who then inserted the dagger in his throat and blesses Nagegowda. The Sadhus then leave the office and Nagegowda too goes back.

Nagegowda, who claims that he became normal yesterday morning, said that he does not know what happened after smelling the vibhuti. As his phone was not with him, Nagegowda, thinking that he had left the phone in the office, goes to the office and searched for his mobile phone and did not find it. He then checked the CCTV footage and claimed that it was only after checking the footage, he came to know what had happened. Nagegowda said that he would lodge a complaint with the Police.

Meanwhile, it has come to light that the Sadhus had come in a white colour Mahindra Bolero vehicle which was seen in Kushalnagar surroundings since two days.

'Protection of fundamental rights should be the priority of Governments'

Prof.H.K.Nagaraj

Mysuru, Nov.26 (SPN&DM)- Stating that protection of fundamental rights should be the priority of Governments, National Law University faculty Prof. H.K. Nagaraj said that the Governments cannot escape from this on any reason. He was speaking on the topic 'Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles' as part of the lecture series on 'The India Constitution - An analysis' organised by Parampare at Sri Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha on JLB Road here on Sunday.

Noting that the Supreme Court judgements on Fundamental Rights are within the original nature of the Constitution, Prof. Nagaraj opined that there is a lot of difference between Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles.

While it is the responsibility of the Government to grant Fundamental Rights, the same is not the case in respect of Directive Principles, as the State is not obligatory for it's implementation.

Pointing out that the protection of human rights is incorporated in the Constitution of all democratic countries in the world, he said that India too has adapted it in its Constitution and the primary thing is that the Governments must ensure the protection of Fundamental Rights.

Stating that education, health and such other service sectors are incorporated in Directive Principles, he said that these have not been included in the Fundamental Rights because of the cost factor. However, it is the responsibility of the Government to provide services to the people, he said. He further said that the Supreme Court judgement in the S.R. Bommai case is often referred to, whenever a political crisis brews in any State or the country and the case reaches the Apex Court.

Lawyers, Cops and The Individual

Point of VIEW

T.J.S. George

Unimaginable things happen in our country. Remember the scene news channels broadcast recently? A uniformed Police Officer leaving the premises of a Court in Delhi on his official bike is hit on the neck by a lawyer with other lawyers watching. He slaps the officer on the face, then slaps him again. The Officer takes the blows without a word and slowly drives away. The lawyer throws a helmet at him as the bike turns into a drive way. This was a scene that could fit into the Incredible India! advertisement series.

The scene was doubly incredible. That lawyers can turn so violent is something that is difficult for the public to stomach. That Policemen can quietly accept beating is almost impossible to stomach. Citizens have only seen the Police functioning as a republic within a republic. Usually, the Police take people in for questioning and throw bodies out after questions have been answered. So what turned wolves into lambs? And what turned law-keepers into law-breakers?

Lawyers taking law into their hands is not new. Nor was it confined to Delhi. Something as silly as standing in a queue led to a lawyer-Police showdown at Chennai Airport in 2012. The lawyer tried to jump the queue and the Police Officer, standing in the queue, objected. Instead of falling in line quietly as normal citizens would do, this lawyer assaulted the Police guy. When he was detained on that account, other lawyers held a dharna in protest.

In 2016, violence erupted between lawyers and journalists in Kerala over a case involving an advocate's arrest in a molestation case. Obviously, the lawyers wanted to hush up the case and found reporters an obstacle. The violence was as bad as a war and several lawyers and journalists landed in hospital. A similar showdown had happened in Bangalore over the notorious Bellary mining baron Janardhan Reddy's case. A big fight broke out when he was produced in Court, developing into a riot as lawyers attacked reporters; Police had to resort to lathicharge and teargassing. Worse was the beating up of JNU hero Kanhaiya Kumar as he was being taken to Court. Lawyers with no qualms about their BJP partisanship moved along with the crowd, repeatedly attacking the student leader. That was the first open demonstration by the BJP of its intention to subvert JNU.

All that paled into insignificance when lawyers in Delhi's Tis Hazari Court took on Policemen. Nothing had happened to threaten the legal foundations of the Republic or to subvert the country's Police network. All that happened was that a lawyer couldn't find a place to park his car. When he parked at a particular spot, a Policemen said that parking was not allowed there. The skies fell.

Lawyers collected en-masse and locked the gates of the compound preventing people from reaching the Courts.

"The worst aspect of the spat was that not a word came from the Home Minister of the country. Not only did the matter come directly under his portfolio; he was an acknowledged power centre rated virtually on par with the Prime Minister. Yet he was silent.

They turned on the Policemen who were within sight. A Police van was set on fire and a dozen bikes vandalised. Later, Policemen went on strike demanding action against the lawyers. Their families gathered at India Gate with slogans like "We are humans, in Police uniform." Top Officers had to appear and pacify them. They announced ex-gratia compensation for Police personnel who were injured. The Courts had handled such disputes in ways that showed closer understanding of lawyers' problems than Policemen's.

These were not only unprecedented events; they were also unbefitting a Democracy. The worst aspect of the spat was that not a word came from the Home Minister of the country. Not only did the matter come directly under his portfolio; he was an acknowledged power centre rated virtually on par with the Prime Minister. Yet he was silent. He was also invisible at the height of the controversy. In fact, WhereIsAmitShah became a hashtag. Nor was anything heard from the Prime Minister, usually alive to solving the problems of the world.

It is difficult to imagine that all this is happening in a country that had great lawyers among its founding fathers.

Mohandas Gandhi was a practising attorney in South Africa before he returned home. Jawaharlal Nehru was in the team of defence lawyers when the INA case came up in 1945. Among other celebrities, Ram Jethmalani was loved for his eccentricities and no one grudges his fee of Rs. 25 lakh per appearance.

Does it all boil down to individuals? Not all leaders are focussed on serving the people. Most have individual interests. Disraeli said: Only institutions, not individuals can create a nation. Disraeli did not know India or its individuals.

'Rename all burial grounds and crematoria as Mokshadhama'

Mysuru, Nov. 26 - "Instead of calling all burial grounds and crematoria in city by different names, they should be named as 'Mokshadhama.' We will put up this proposal at the next Council Meeting," said Corporators Ashwini Sharat and Pallavi Begum.

They were speaking after launching 'Dhamma Deepotsava' by lighting the lamp at Vidyaranyapuram burial ground in city on the occasion of last Monday of Karthika Masa.

"The team lead by Surendra Kumar, who is in-charge of Vidyaranyapuram burial ground, has taken the initiative of organising 'Dhamma Deepotsava' to pay tribute to our elders by lighting lamps and rendering music, which is a commendable job. This kind of meaningful event should be organised by local residents at their respective graveyards in city," they added.

Jai Bharat Band and team played instrumental music on the occasion. Corporator Sharadamma Eshwar, Shantaraju of Dalit Welfare Trust, leaders P. Raju, Siddu Swamy, Annaiah, Adi Karnataka Mahasamsthe President Vijay Kumar and others were present.

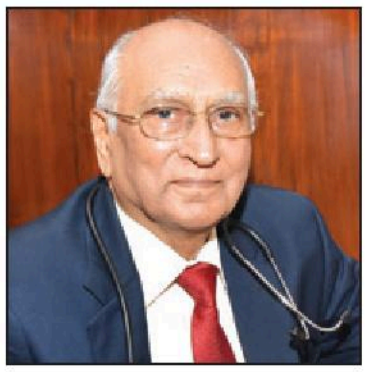
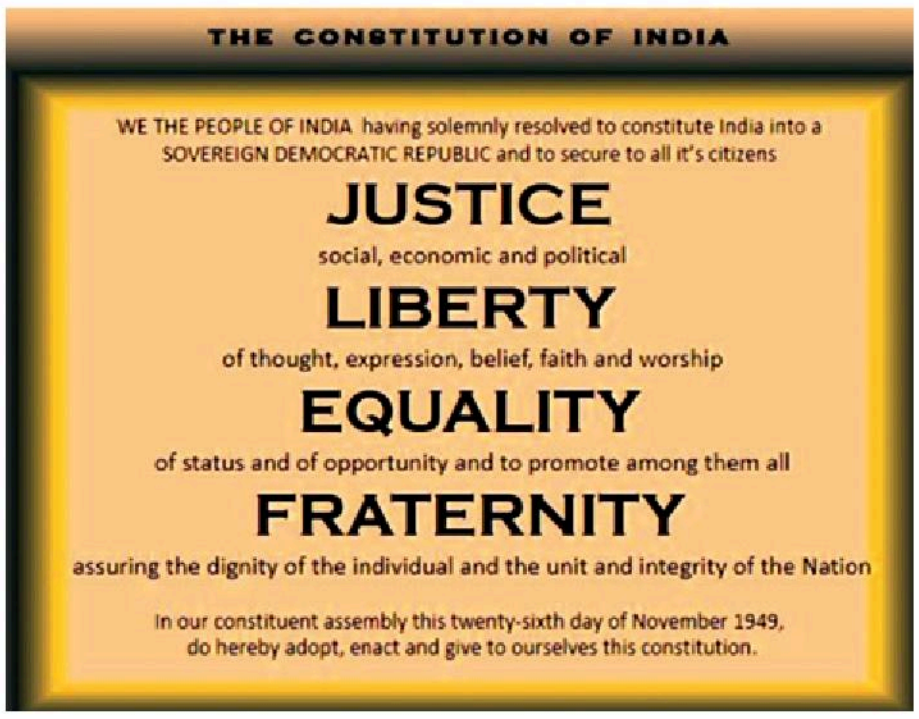
"We The People"

The making of Indian Constitution and the forgotten Kannadiga who helped build India's Democracy



By Dr. C. D. Sreenivasa Murthy



THE CONSTITUTION OF INDIA
WE THE PEOPLE OF INDIA having solemnly resolved to constitute India into a SOVEREIGN DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC and to secure to all it's citizens
JUSTICE
social, economic and political LIBERTY
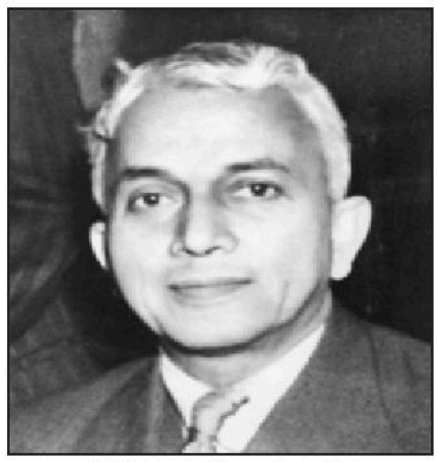
of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship
EQUALITY
of status and of opportunity and to promote among them all
FRATERNITY
assuring the dignity of the individual and the unit and integrity of the Nation
In our constituent assembly this twenty-sixth day of November 1949, do hereby adopt, enact and give to ourselves this constitution.



Sir Benegal Narasinga Rau

The British Government took over the administration of India from the East India Company immediately after the First War of Independence (Sepoy Mutiny) in 1857. They had a very low opinion about Indians and their capacity to rule themselves. In 1927, the then Secretary of State for India, Lord Birkenhead challenged Indians by saying, "Let them produce a Constitution which carries behind it a fair measure of general agreement among the great peoples of India." In response, the Indian National Congress in 1928 appointed a Committee with Motilal Nehru as the Chairman "to determine the Principles of the Constitution for India." The Motilal Nehru report was submitted on 10th August, 1928. It was an outline of a Draft Constitution for India. Most of its features were later included in the Constitution of India. The Nehru's report laid special emphasis on securing fundamental human rights and visualised a Parliamentary system. It is interesting to note that Motilal Nehru report had recommended that "the redistribution of provinces should take place on a linguistic basis."

The first session of the Constituent Assembly was held on 9th December, 1946. The Muslim League stayed away from the deliberations and the Congress Muslims attended the session.

The Mountbatten Plan was announced on 3rd June. The Mountbatten Plan clearly made certain the partition of India as India and Pakistan. After the declaration of Independence on 15th August, 1947, the Constituent Assembly became a sovereign body and it served as a Constitution-making body as well as the Legislating organ.

The Constituent Assembly consisted of elected members, nominated eminent personalities and representatives of Princely States. In the Constitution-making process, both Nehru and Sardar Patel played a very important role by their keen involvement. It was Nehru who spelt out the philosophy and basic features of the Constitution and Sardar played the decisive role in bringing in the representatives of the erstwhile Princely States into the Constituent Assembly, in seeing to it that separate electorates were eliminated and preventing any move for reservation of seats for religious minorities.

It is important to note that on 11th December, 1946 the Constituent Assembly formally appointed Sir Benegal Narasinga Rau as Constitutional Advisor. As Constitutional Advisor of the Constituent Assembly, he laid the groundwork for how members of the Constituent Assembly would draft India's Constitution. He single-handedly prepared the initial draft by February 1948, which was debated, revised, altered and finally adopted by the Constituent Assembly on 26th November, 1949.

The Constitution borrowed heavily from the well-established Constitutions of the United States, Canada, Ireland, Australia and various other nations and the unwritten Constitutional traditions of Great Britain. It came to a form in various Sub-Committees whose deliberations were later placed before the main Assembly and thoroughly discussed.

The Indian Constitution was drafted by a Core Committee of seven experts headed by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar. All were legal experts or Administrative Luminaries including Sir B.N. Rau, K.M. Munshi, N. Gopalaswamy Ayyangar, Alladi Krishnaswamy Ayyar, Syed Mohammad Saadullah and N. Madhava Rao who was Dewan (Prime Minister) of Mysore. Thus the Committee had two Kannadigas — Sir Benegal Narasinga Rau and Dewan Nyamathi Madhava Rao. D.P. Khaitan was also inducted, but he died in 1948 to be replaced by T.T. Krishnamachari, who became a Minister for two times in the Nehru Cabinet.

The Constituent Assembly's resolution setting up Drafting Committee, under the Chairmanship of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar, declared that it was being set up to "Scrutinise the Draft of the text of the Constitution prepared by the Constitutional Adviser (Sir Benegal Narasinga Rau) giving effect to the decisions taken already in the Assembly and including all matters ancillary thereto or which have to be provided in such a Constitution, and to submit to the Assembly for consideration the text of the Draft Constitution as revised by the Committee." The Drafting Committee, under the Chairmanship of Dr. Ambedkar, declared that the 'Draft Constitution' was being scrutinised thoroughly by Sir B.N. Rau for making it one of the world's best Constitutions. Rau was not a member of the Constitutional Assembly but was the most important expert who did the primary thinking and writing.

PROFILE: Sir Benegal Narasinga Rau was born on 26th February 1887 at Chitrapur Saraswat community in Mangalore (Mangaluru), Madras Presidency (present day) Karnataka. He grew up in a family of intellectuals with his father B.R. Rau being a leading doctor in city. One of his brothers, Benegal Rama Rau, went on to become the second Governor of the Reserve Bank in Independent India.

Even as the hearing was underway on Monday, the Shiv Sena-NCP-Congress' proposed Maha Vikas Aghadi staked its claim to form the Government in the State. The delegations submitted support letters of a total 162 MLAs of the three parties to the Governor's Office.

Interestingly, the BJP has also claimed the support of over 170 MLAs on their side including its own 105, besides others from the NCP, independents and smaller parties.

In the Maharashtra Assembly elections held on Oct. 21, BJP had won 105 seats in the 288-member House while the NCP had won 54 seats. The Congress had won 44 seats.

Besides the enthusiastic 162 MLAs of the three Maha Vikas Aghadi partners, top leaders of all three parties — Sharad Pawar, Supriya Sule, Praful Patel, Jayant Patil, Nawab Malik, Jitendra Awhad (all NCP), Uddhav Thackeray, Aditya Thackeray, Eknath Shinde and Sanjay Raut (all Shiv Sena), Ashok Chavan, Prithviraj Chavan, Balasaheb Thorat and Mallikarjuna Kharge (Congress) and others were present.

'Constitution respected on Constitution Day, we welcome SC order'

New Delhi, Nov. 26 (UNI)- The Congress, NCP and Shiv Sena today welcomed the Supreme Court's order to conduct floor test in Maharashtra Assembly tomorrow and demanded Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis' resignation.

Moments after the Apex Court verdict, senior Congress leader and former Maharashtra Chief Minister Prithviraj Chavan said that all the three parties are satisfied with the Court order.

Stating that the Constitution was respected on Constitution Day, Chavan added, "Devendra Fadnavis should resign today."

AICC communication in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala termed the Supreme Court order was a 'slap on an illegitimate BJP-Ajit Pawar Government, who had hijacked the mandate.'

Responding to the verdict, senior Congress leader Abhishek Manu Singhvi, said that the Supreme Court has given a gift to the nation on the Constitution Day.

In a tweet, NCP Chief Sharad Pawar welcomed the SC order, "I am grateful to Supreme Court for upholding democratic values and Constitutional principles. It's heartening that the Maharashtra verdict came on the Constitution Day, a tribute to Bharat Ratna Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar."

Welcoming the order the Shiv Sena tweeted, "Satyamev Jayate! We welcome the decision of the Supreme Court today. The leadership of Shiv Sena, NCP, Congress and allies will soon prove majority and give Maharashtra a stable government."

Earning a scholarship, Sir Benegal Narasinga Rau (B.N. Rau) did his studies at the illustrious Trinity College, Cambridge. Later, he passed the coveted Indian Civil Service examination in 1909 and was posted to Bengal on his first assignment. For the next two decades, he served both in the ICS and the Judiciary, serving as a Judge in the Calcutta High Court. He retired from service in 1944, when he was appointed as the Prime Minister of the Princely State of Jammu and Kashmir. However, he soon left the job — due to differences with Hari Singh, the then Maharaja of Kashmir.

Before his tenure as Constitutional Advisor, he served as a Secretary in the Governor-General's Office working on the subject of Constitutional reforms. After his retirement, Nehru and Patel persuaded him to work as Constitutional Advisor and head the CAS Secretariat. When he took over the position of Constitutional Advisor and led the establishment of the CAS in July 1946, he laid down firm conditions before the Constituent Assembly. "The whole organisation is non-political and non-party in character. Its services are equally available to every member, irrespective of party and creed," he wrote.

We know that the Indian Constitution borrows heavily from Constitutions of other nations. Soon after taking Office as Constitutional Advisor, Rau and his team travelled to the USA, Canada, Ireland and the United Kingdom, where he had personal consultations with scholars, Judges and authorities on Constitutional Law. Before the Constituent Assembly prepared its first draft of the Constitution in October 1947, he wrote Constitutional Precedents — an in-depth analysis "comparing the basic elements of the Constitutions" of different nation States.

Dr. Rajendra Prasad, the President of the Constituent Assembly, said Rau "was the person who visualised the plan and laid the foundation" of the Indian Constitution. Dr. Rajendra Prasad, before signing the Constitution on 26th November, 1949, thanked Rau for having 'worked honorarily all the time that he was here, assisting the Assembly not only with his knowledge and erudition but also enabled the other members to perform their duties with thoroughness and intelligence by supplying them with the material on which they could work.

Universal adult franchise

A firm believer of universal adult franchise, Rau believed that no Indian voter should be left behind in the process of election process. He was the leading authority in guiding the process of making the universal franchise from a Constitutional perspective. He took up the responsibility of preparing all India electoral rolls since its inception in 1946 till 1948. Rau found solutions to some of the most difficult logistical problems that arose from registering voters, particularly the refugees entering India following Partition who weren't technically 'citizens' and whose residential status was undetermined. His sense of justice and pursuit of pragmatic, satisfying solutions under very difficult circumstances were the same qualities that he demonstrated when he found solutions to the problems of implementing the franchise. Rau refused any remuneration for his monumental role as the Constitutional Advisor to the Indian Government and the Constituent Assembly.

After he quit Office in late 1948, the Government of Burma (present day Mynamar) requested his services for writing their Constitution.

First Indian at ICJ

He served as India's representative in the United Nations Security Council from 1950 to 1952. He was the first person from India to become the President of the UN Security Council. Before his election to the Court, he was regarded as a candidate for Secretary-General of the United Nations. About his performance at the UNO, the New York Daily Mirror said: "For sheer brilliance in the United Nations, India's Rau is far ahead of Britain's whimsical Sir Gladwyn Jebb or America's excitable Warren Austin." Later Rau was elected as a Judge to the International Court of Justice (ICJ) in The Hague — the first Indian to attain that eminent and highly respected position.

Unfortunately, Sir Rau passed away in November 1953 in Zurich, Switzerland. The United Nations Organisation termed his death as "a loss to the world community" and Russian delegates called him "a saint among the delegates."

Dr. B.R. Ambedkar, as Chairman of the Drafting Committee, gave the final shape to the Indian Constitution, and got the final approval of the Constitutional Assembly, and hence he is rightly regarded as its architect. Dr. Benegal Narasinga Rau prepared the conceptual briefs and the basic skeleton. It is said that he played a major role in the inclusion of the directive principles in the Constitution. Probably his contribution is second only to that of Dr. Ambedkar, in making of the Constitution of India. It is unfortunate that this great Indian, eminent Kannadiga, "Kannada Ratna" has been forgotten in our nation and particularly in Karnataka.

[The second part of "We The People" article titled "The Man who (literally) wrote India's Constitution — Prem Behari Narain Raizada" will be published in SOM tomorrow]

'Feminism is not an armed combat but a peaceful movement'

Book on feminism released

Mysuru, Nov.26 (MTY&US)- Abhiruchi Prakashana and Samatha Study Centre had organised a programme at Maneyangala in Kalmandira premises here on Nov.24 for the release of the book 'Sthreevada Chintane Mattu Horata' written by H.S. Shreemathi.

Releasing the book, Senior Journalist and writer Dr. Vijayamma opined that feminism was not an armed combat but a movement shaped through peace and compassion. She asserted that feminist movement should continue till women become a part of the decision-making authority for all developmental changes in society. She observed that the patriarchal society has not portrayed women correctly. She advised people to oppose misogynistic attitude in society.

Continuing, Dr. Vijayamma observed that though male chauvinism is still prominent in society, a few men are able to understand the concept of feminism.

An allegation prevails in political sector that women fail to perform even if they are given an opportunity and power. Compared to men, women are neither good nor bad and many times goodness is unduly dumped on women which they should shrug off if necessary, she suggested.

Tarikere Government First Grade College Professor Dr. Savita Bannadi opined that many people have misconstrued the concept of feminism and suggested women to garner strength to promote feministic thoughts.

Critic Dr. O.L. Nagabhushan Swamy presided. Chandramati Sondha of Samatha Study Centre and Publisher Abhiruchi Ganesh were present.

WORD OF THE DAY

Recondite

Pronunciation: REK-un-dyte.

Meaning: Difficult or impossible for one of ordinary understanding or knowledge to comprehend : deep; of, relating to, or dealing with something little known or obscure; hidden from sight : concealed.

Origin: While the adjective recondite may be used to describe something difficult to understand, there is nothing recondite about the word's history. It dates to the early 1600s, when it was coined from the synonymous Latin word reconditus. Recondite is one of those underused but useful words that's always a boon to one's vocabulary, but take off the re- and you get something very obscure: condite is an obsolete verb meaning both "to pickle or preserve" and "to embalm." If we add the prefix in- to condite we get incondite, which means "badly put together," as in "incondite prose." All three words have Latin condere at their root; that verb is translated variously as "to put or bring together," "to put up, store," and "to conceal."

THE ODD WORD

Racloir

Scraper used by early hominids.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Read the riot act

Meaning: Reprimand rowdy characters and warn them to stop behaving badly.

Origin: Since the early 19th century we have used 'read the riot act' as a figurative phrase to describe attempts to calm groups of rowdies - along the same lines as 'you noisy louts, don't you know there are people here trying to sleep?'. It wasn't always so. Had we been 'reading the riot act' in 1715 we would have noticed capital letters. At that date there was a real Riot Act and it used to be read in public.

In English law the control of unruly citizens has usually been the responsibility of local magistrates. Any group of twelve or more that the authorities didn't like the look of could be deemed a 'riotous and tumultuous assembly' and arrested if they didn't disperse within an hour of the Riot Act being read to them by a magistrate. This seems a little harsh, but in 18th century England the government was fearful of Jacobite mobs who threatened to rise up and overthrow the Hanoverian George I. The fear was well-founded, as supporters of the deposed Stuarts did actually invade in 1715 and again in 1745. The 'Riot Act' was passed by the British government in 1714 and came into force in 1715. The Riot Act, which was more formally called 'An act for preventing tumults and riotous assemblies, and for the more speedy and effectual punishing the rioters' actually contained this warning: "Our sovereign Lord the King chargeth and commandeth all persons, being assembled, immediately to disperse themselves, and peaceably to depart to their habitations, or to their lawful business, upon the pains contained in the act made in the first year of King George, for preventing tumults and riotous assemblies. God save the King."

Amitabh Bachchan, who was not well for the past few days, resumed his shoot on Nov.11 and shot for three episodes continuously. He took to his blog and shared his experience of meeting Sudha Murty. He wrote, "Had the honour and privilege of being in the company of Sudha Murty, the wife of Infosys Narayana Murthy and to hear and learn about her Foundation and the immense amount of work that she has done and is doing for the poor and underprivileged, in particular the succour and a fresh life she is giving to the ancient tradition of the Devadasis, and giving them a new beginning. What an amazing experience. What a lady and what an immense learning for me and all that come under her care and influence."

Sudha Murty gifted a Chadar made by the Devadasis to Big B. "A Chadar stitched by Devadasis whom Sudha ji has given a new life to, away from the old tradition where they were relegated to discrimination and a gift for me to ever remember and be in awe of her tremendous work," wrote Bachchan.
